School Begins on Tuesday

Vacation Has Ended and Students Must Now Gather Their Books and March to the Tune of the Three R's

Campbell High School

Tuesday morning the school bells will ring again in Campbell and the boys and girls will know that vacatton time has passed and they must get busy with the pen, and drop the fruit knife and bucket for a few hours each day. To top it all they must even forget their freedom of the summer and will now have to keep still and sit in a seat harder than the orchard ground where they have been accustomed to sit the last few days.

The people of Campbell are thankful they have such good schools to send the "kids" to. We can feel justly proud of our school system and teachers. The young people should remember this and make the best of their opportunities, striving to gain all the knowledge they can so that they may be fitted for life better than their were.

WOMAN AND FASHION

The New Yoke Skirt.

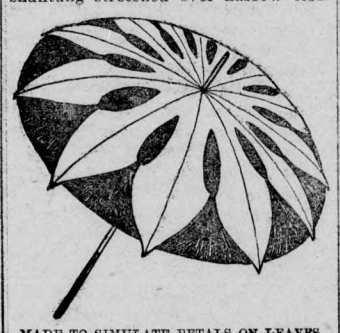
The yoke skirt that was looked on a bit doubtfully when it first made its appearance a few months ago has met with the most unparalleled success both here and abroad. Frenchwomen particularly have caught it up with the greatest enthusiasm, and from all accounts of the French and English races one saw little else among smartly gowned women. A lovely dress in a very fine silk finished batiste has the tucked and lace trimmed skirt mounted on a deep yoke that reaches down well below the hips. The tucks, or, rather, plaits, start at the lower edge of the yoke and are stitched down for six or eight inches. The stitching is placed fairly near the edge of the plaits, so that it gives them a pretty tucklike effect.

Shirred Gowns.

A dress that involves labor, but fully recompenses one for any amount of time spent upon it, is one of the new shirred gowns that so far have been seen only at the smartest dressmaking houses here and abroad. It has a sort of princess tunic body—an overdress that reaches a little below the knees and is shirred in closely to the figure at the waist line. The bodice is cut out at the throat under an odd shaped collarette or empiecement that can be worn semidecollette or with a little chemisette of some kind. The overdress is built on a foundation lining, close fitting and lengthened with a deep flounce that supplies the underskirt to the tunic.

Novel Parasol.

From Germany comes this novel parasol, which is quaint and dainty enough to have originated in the heart of Paris. The foundation is much like that of any other sunshade—silk or shantung stretched over narrow ribs.



MADE TO SIMULATE PETALS ON LEAVES.

But the novelty comes in the form which these ribs give to the silk. By a slight extension at the ends of each and a clever arrangement of the soutache trimming the ridges are made to simulate petals or leaves. In pale green or white the effect is particularly pretty and flowerlike.

Modish Ribbon Bands.

The band of ribbon tied in a bow is one of the prettiest garnitures for a girl's head, and, taking this as a model, an effective decoration could be made for evening wear from a dainty colored tulle. It would be fluffier looking than ribbon.

To make such a head ornament one-half inch band of something stiff, but light (a strand of straw would answer), could be covered with a thin silk in the desired coloring, tulle the same shade to be shirred over it, adding as a finish a rosette of the tulle. Elderly women might like to adopt this in black tulle, setting a rhinestone button in the center of the rosette.

The Fishwife Gown.

It is a reaction.

It's a rebellion against "sheaths" and such.

It has a plaited skirt that flares decidedly at the ankles.

Its waist is cut on tight princess lines, and the bodice is long.

It is made up in pongee, fine lightweight serge and soft summer silks and thin woolen materials.

But just why it is called the "fishwife" has not been divulged, even in Paris, where the smart model first made its appearance.

Sleeve Modes.

Fashion shows more vagaries in sleeves than in all the rest of the dress put together. For the moment it is very difficult to tell what the next mode is really going to be. Many of the Paris houses are making the sleeves pretty tight from wrist to shoulder, save for the outside of the arm, where a hazy puffiness of chiffon makes the whole airy and graceful.

Monday the Farmerjs Co-operative and Educational Union opened their packing house for business and now the work of grading and packing is going rapidly forward. They expect to keep the plant running all winter and will employ about six men.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Every Progressive Man of Campbell Should Endeavor to be Present

Ways and Means to Secure Good Fire Protection Through Plentiful Water Supply

Next Monday night the Improvement Club will hold its regular meeting at the Bank of Campbell Building. A good attendance is desired as many important things are to come before the Board at this time. Now that the night work in the cannery and dryer is about over, we should endeavor to meet regularly and do what we can to liven things up a bit. There is no better thing in a town than a good lively Improvement Club, and there is no reason why Campbell can not have as lively a one as any other town, if her citizens will take interest in it.

Probably the most important thing to come before the meeting is the matter of water supply in case of fire. Some think we had best incorporate the town and own our own water works, while others think we are not ready to incorporate and think, under the Fire District, which we recently formed we can do all that is necessary. They argue that we can bond the town, or rather fire district, and buy the water works from the present company, and improve it by laying larger mains and attaching a pump direct to them in case of fire. The present company is composed of private individuals and cannot be reasonably expected to lay large mains and go to expense when they will secure no adequate returns for the investment. As it is we are informed the company is about making both ends meet and should they be compelled to invest any more capital, they would again have to raise the water rates, and surely they are high enough for any resident to pay. If you have any ideas to put before the Board at this time on this subject, be present Monday night.

Another very important item to Campbell's welfare is the matter of trolley service. The march of civilization is marked by the railroads and the better the railroad service, the more marked the march. Here in Campbell, five miles from San Jose, and the nearest town to San Jose, we have to struggle along on an hourly service, while Hamilton and Johnson, a country crossroads less than a mile nearer town, enjoys a half hour service. It seems queer to us that the cars are run to this place at all, because the people here seem to take what comes along and not go after anything they have a right to get. Some action ought to be taken on this matter. The railroad company would not be unreasonable if made to see that such a move would benefit them. Let us consider this proposition. It costs the railroad thirty-five cents an hour for electricity to operate their small cars, and it takes an hour to make the Hamilton and Johnson runs. It takes the same time to make the Campbell run, as per the schedule, therefore not costing them any more to run to Campbell than to run to Hamilton and Johnson. Everybody, with a few exceptions, who rides on the Hamilton and Johnson cars, walk the rest of the way into Campbell. If the facts were known there would not be enough travel to Hamilton and Johnson, if it were not for Campbell, to pay for the oil used on the bearings. If Campbell had a half hour service, more people would come to Campbell and go from here, thus increasing the company's business. The railroad company will take some action on this matter if we wish it. If you know anything about this matter your presence is desired at the meeting next Monday night.

One other very important thing we have to consider is getting outside people interested in Campbell. We want to have Campbell progress in the number of her inhabitants more than any other thing. The more people that come to Campbell the more money all of us will make, and the more chance we will have to get what we want in the matter of railroads and water systems, sewers and buildings, libraries and fine homes. We will have to make progress or go backwards, as there is no standing still in the march of civilization. What one thing do we lack to make others interested in us? Why, for one thing we lack suitable advertising literature, setting forth in condensed and attractive form, the advantages of Campbell and the chances for outsiders here. We have nothing like this. If a prospective settler asks for anythink like that we have to shake our heads, and say 'We are sorry, but we haven't anything like that." Why haven't we? Is it because we cannot get enough money to get it? We think not. If you can throw any light on this subject come to the meeting next Monday night.

It is the duty of every man in Campbell to be present and do his best to forward this progressive movement in every growing community. Such matters are too often left to a very few progressive men who have the interest of the town at heart, and the rest too often sit idly by and make comments on their work. If you have any interest in Campbell, you owe it to yourself to come and help to make our town progress. Remember, Monday night.

Campbell Loses to Fan Team

Local Boys Find their Second Defeat Last Sunday

Last Sunday the Campbell Baseball team met defeat at the hands of the San Jose Fan Team, by the score of 5 to 1. The boys have only lost two games this season and the Fan team has administered both defeats. They have four professional players, it is reported, and are on the field practicing every day, while the Campbell boys, on the other hand, are working hard all week, and getting very little practice.

The local team stands very high in the season's averages, being second in the race for the pennant. They will make a strong fight for it and will win we are sure. Next Sunday they will journey to Palo Alto where they will play the Outlaws and on Monday, Labor Day, they will play the Brassy team at Luna Park, San Jose. McKensie will pitch at Palo Alto and Stockton will be in the box Monday. They will win both games we are confident, and we give them good luck.

The bleachers were crowded last Sunday, there being about 2000 present, showing the popularity of the League.

Letter from I. Preston

While at Salt Lake during the recent Grand Army reunion, Mr. I. Preston wrote us a letter, describing his stay and what he saw there, portions of which we print here.

Salt Lake, Utah, August 11, 1909.

Dear Editor:

I reached this city last Sunday night well, though tired. I found my friend Hotchkiss, from Hermosa Beach, the next day and have been visiting with him and taking in the sights of the city and its surrounding territory. Yesterday we went out to Saltair and there saw three acres of walks and buildings on pilings over the salt water. It is very nice out there, especially on a hot day. It is a four mile drive from the city. Everything there was free to those of us who wore the little bronze button of the G. A. R. on our coats.

Today we were in parade, and passed in review before the city. There were five hundred of us in line, and as it was very hot a few fell out by the roadside, although as a whole we stood it very well for men of our ages. Tomorrow will be the business meeting and election of officers, after which there will be a scattering for home.

Last night we were at a reception to the G. A. R. veterans at the Mormon Tabernacle. While sitting there looking at the beautiful decorations and fine finish of the building, which is said not to have a nail in its construction, and listening to the largest pipe organ in the world, I thought if all this was made for the general good of the people or just for the good of a few. While at this reception I heard some very fine speeches from Grand Army men, and also fine music, both instrumental and vocal. One thing I was much pleased in was the young ladies' band that led one of the delegations. Another beautiful thing which turned out to be a very sad affair was the living flag. It was composed of Salt Lake fairest young girls, five hundred in number, and out of them seventeen were overcome by the hot sun which shone down upon their unprotected heads and they had to be taken away to the hospital. Two have died and the others have not yet passed the danger line.

Circus is Coming

Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Show is to visit San Jose on September 14, coming this season with new laurels won at Madison Square Garden in New York becaus of the unprecedented excellence of their performances. It is in all respects the very best circus that was ever organized, and the two performances that will be given in San Jose will be given exactly as they were presented in Manhattan, not the slightest change having been made since the season opened there.

There are no less than seven sensations on the program, any one of which great enough to give a circus distinction. There are the wonderful Schuman horses which waltz on their hind legs, drink out of large glasses and roll each other around in huge barrels; elephants that use the telephone, conversing with each other over the wire from one end of the main tent to the other; the thrilling double summersaulting automobile act, performed by a young French girl; Roblidello, the Mexican wire wizard; the

NEWS OF WEEK FROM ALL THE COAST STATES

Occurrences Along the Pacific Slope Presented in Compendious Array.

Passing Events Among Your Neighbors Briefly Told in Short, Newsy Paragraphs.

Davis. — California's Agricultural School at Davis, which was established last January, will open for the second term on September 20th.

San Francisco. — Jack Johnson, heavy-weight champion pugilist, and Al Kaufman, the husky Californian, have been matched to box ten rounds at Colma on Admission Day.

Seattle.—The Navy Department has ordered that the rebuilding of the Oregon and the repairing of the gunboat Concord be done at the Puget Sound navy yard. This will prevent the discharge of 700 employes.

Porterville. — Charles Buswell, a well known nursery man of this city, is planning to establish the largest citrus fruit nursery in the world. Puswell expects to put out 500,000 trees next spring and these will be in addition to the 125,000 which he now has on his home place.

San Francisco.—Elin Johnson, widow of John A. Johnson and guardian of their three children, obtained judgment for $605.50 against the W. W. Montague Company, dealers in hardware and stoves. She sued the company for $2,000 damages for the death of her husband, who fell in a caldron of boiling tar.

Tacoma, Wash.—Robbers stole $200 from Joe Caretti, an Italian rancher, and then set fire to his home in an attempt to burn him to death. The Italian awoke as the flames were burning the bed clothes that covered him, and barely escaped with his life by jumping out of the window. The money was his entire savings since he has been in America.

Placerville.—Street graders employed by the people of Georgetown on the main business street of the town, uncovered a rich ledge from which were taken large pieces of specimen rock, actually glittering with free gold. When pieces of the rock were thrown up by the plow, many miners flocked to the scene and took samples. Street grading was resumed only with difficulty.

Sacramento.—That cotton can be successfully grown in the Sacramento Valley has been demonstrated by J. W. Sturtevant of Oak Park. He sent to Florida for cottonseeds and planted them last April. In due time a number of thriving cotton plants were growing. Although given practically no care several of the cotton plants are now three feet in height. Every morning they produce half a dozen or more blossoms.

San Jose.—Suddenly going insane, a Japanese in the employ of H. C. Morrel, a rancher at Wrights, ran amuck and, flourishing a revolver, drove the occupants of the house to the woods. He shot at a compatriot several times, but failed to hit him. He then barricaded himself in a cabin and shot at every one who came in sight. The Sheriff's office sent deputies and he was arrested after his ammunition had given out.

Oakland.—Attempting to conquer his opponent in a manner that was common in his boyhood, William Brackett, a police officer, stationed at the Southern Pacific yards, arrived at the Receiving Hospital and had a dislocated index finger on his left hand put back in place. In explaining the mishap, Brackett said: "I was trying to hold a hobo I had caught in the yards, and as he wouldn't stand still I pinched him on the arm. I guess I pinched too hard and threw my finger out of place.

Byron.—H. T. Hammond, publisher of the Byron Times, whose boosting methods have made the resources and productivity of this section talked of from one end of the country to the other, has given another demonstration of his enterprise and tireless energy. He has celebrated the third anniversary of the Times by installing a new printing plant and issuing the paper in colors. This feature is something new in country journalism, and will arouse such comment among publishers that homeseekers will focus their eyes on Byron.

MOORISH REBELS TORTURED IN A BARBAROUS MANNER

Tangier.—By the Sultan's order, according to advices from Fez, the prisoners captured at the defeat of El Roghi have been barborously tortured. The Sultan first personally questioned them and then had them taken in procession to the gate of Bebelhamis, where the right hand of every prisoner was severed and the stump plunged into boiling pitch. The British Consul has entered a protest

Fez, Morocco.—The cruelty of Mulai Hafid's men to the followers of El Roghi captured by them has been denounced here, and as a protest the inhabitants of Laza have refused to recognize the new Governor appointed by Mulai Hafid. Twenty-five of the prisoners whose hands and feet were severed have succumbed.

Paris.—The French Government has instructed M. Regnault, who is returning to Morocco to take up his duties as Minister, to make common cause with the other members of the diplomatic corps at Tangier, who have decided to make firm representations to Mulai Hafid, the Sultan, to discontinue the horrible tortures and mutilations of prisoners, such as were practiced upon the followers of El Roghi who fell into the hands of the Sultan's troops.

STATE'S PURE FOOD LAW DECLARED CONSTITUTIONAL

Superior Court Upholds the Measure Adopted by Last Legislature.

Oakland.—California's pure food law was upheld by Superior Court Judge Ellsworth, who decided that the measure is constitutional, and ordered J. Bills, a butcher, accused of putting sulphur of dioxide into chopped meat offered for sale, to plead to the charge against him.

Bills' attorneys attacked the constitutionality of the law, picking out the provision that the standard of purity designated by the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture be the standard in this State. His lawyers contended that the Legislature has no power to delegate any such power to the United States body. Judge Samuels sustained this contention in the Police Court, but only with the understanding that the District Attorney would appeal in order to get a ruling on the matter from a court of record.

Caught 153-Pound Leaping Tuna.

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island—After fighting it from his launch for many hours in the darkness, aided only by the faint light of a lantern, P. S. Omara of Salt Lake City landed the largest leaping tuna of the season in southern California. The fish weighed 153 pounds. During more than four hours that elapsed between the time of Omara's hooking the fish and bringing it to gaff the launch was towed more than twelve miles.

Will Fly at State Fair.

Sacramento.—Lyman Gilmore, the Colfax aviator, came to terms with the committee handling Sacramento realty day at the State Fair and has agreed to make flights with his new model aeroplane every day of the coming fair. The flights will be made from a specially constructed platform at the race track.

Boy Mutilated by Railroad Torpedo.

Colton.—George Ashby, the 9 year old son of H. H. Ashby of the Edison company's sub station here, found a railroad torpedo in the yard, and, taking it to a nearby anvil, struck it with a chisel to see if it were a good one. One eye was torn out and his face badly cut. He also lost a finger of his right hand.

Heavy Seal Catch.

San Francisco.—The North American Commercial Company of this city, which has the Prebyloff islands sealing lease, notified the Department of Commerce and Labor that its catch this season amounted to 14,366 skins, within 634 of the full quota allowed under the contract with the Government.

Bad News Killed Him.

Santa Ana.—When Charles Forbes, an El Toro rancher, received a telegram that his brother, Augustus, residing at Riverside, was seriously ill, he was prostrated, and a short time later was found dead in the back yard of his home. A few hours afterward Augustus also was dead.

Admission Day in San Jose.

San Jose.—This city expects to entertin fully 30,000 visitors during the Admission Day celebration of September 8, 9, 10 and 11.

Remarkable Feats Performed by Daring Sky Navigators

Rheims, France. — Aviation week closed with a blaze of glory for the United States when Glenn H. Curtiss broke another record in the race for the Prix de la Vitesse. Curtiss won this prize, which is for the fastest triple circuit of the Bethany field, in 25:49 2-5, almost a minute faster than the record. His aggregate winnings of the week have been $7,600, besides the International Cup, which will become the property of the Aero Club of America. Curtiss won second place in the lap speed race of ten kilometers.

The victory of Glenn H. Curtiss, the sole American representative in the contests, coming on the heels of his great victory in the International Cup yesterday, gives the United States the lion's share of the honors. Curtiss only missed winning the speed lap contest from Bleriot by a small margin.

Six aeroplanes simultaneously winged their flight in huge circles over the plain at Bethany marked the opening of aviation week on Sunday, August 22. At the finish there was a wonderful and impressive exhibition.

Glenn P. Curtiss, the American aviator, and M. Paulham, representing France, divided the honors of the second day of aviation week, the former in a thrilling flight just before dusk, in which he lowered the speed record for the course, which measures 6 1-5 miles, to 5:35 2-5; the latter making two impressive high altitude flights of 49½ and 56 kilometers, respectively, in the endurance test for the Prix de La Champagne, carrying prizes amounting to $20,000.

A marvelous prolonged high flight of 30 kilometers (18½ miles) in a 20 knot breeze by Paulham and the establishment of a new world's record for 10 kilometers at the rate of 74.318 meters (46 miles) an hour by Bleriot, were the features of the aerial race meeting Tuesday.

Another sensational exploit was added to the marvels of aviation week on Wednesday, when Paulham, the plucky French aviator, broke the world's record in a wonderful flight of 2 hours, 53 minutes and 24 seconds. During 20 minutes of the time Paulham had a heavy rain and windstorm to contend with.

The previous official record for time in the air was made by Wilbur Wright at Lemans, December 31, 2 hours, 20 minutes and 23 1-5 seconds. The unofficial record was 2 hours, 27 minutes and 25 seconds, made by Sommer at Marmellons. Paulham's new record for distance was about 134 kilometers, or 83 miles. He made 13 circuits of the course, and the wind squall passed as he was coming down the home stretch for the last time.

Hubert Latham, the French aviator, on Thursday took glorious revenge for the hard luck he experienced in his recent attempts to cross the English channel, and his indefatigable but bitherto unsuccessful efforts to accomplish some notable achievement during the week, by beating Paulham's performance of Wednesday and establishing a new world's airship record for distance, 154 kilometers, 650 meters, or 95.88 miles.

Latham covered fifteen laps, or 150 kilometers, in 2 hours, 13 minutes, 9 seconds, and the full distance in 2 hours, 18 minutes, 9 3-5 seconds, which also are world's records, the flight being at the rate of about 68½ kilometers an hour, as compared with 53½ made by Wright at Lemans, and a fraction under 50 made by Paulham Wednesday.

But the records of Paulham and Latham went to smash on Friday, when Henry Farman, the English aviator, a hitherto unknown quantity in the aviation contests, in a biplane of his own design, broke the world's records for duration of flight and distance in a heavier-than-air machine and won the Grand Prix de la Champagne—the endurance test—by a remarkable flight officially recorded as 180 kilometers (111.78 miles) in 3 hours, 4 minutes, 56 2-5 seconds. He actually covered an extra ten kilometers and remained in the air ten minutes after 7:30 in the evening, the hour that the timekeepers, under the rules, ceased to keep a record of the flight.

The other contestants finished in the order named: Hubert Latham, in a monoplane No. 29, 154 kilometers 500 meters, time 2 hours 18 minutes 9 3-5 seconds; Louis Paulham, in a Voisin biplane, 131 kilometers; Count de Lambert, biplane, 116 kilometers; Hubert Latham, in a monoplane No. 13, 111 kilometers; M. Tissandier, biplane, 111 kilometers; Roger Sommer, biplane, 60 kilometers; M. de la Grange, monoplane, 50 kilometers; M. Bleriot, monoplane, 40 kilometers; Glenn H. Curtiss, biplane, 30 kilometers; M. Lefebvre, biplane, 21 kilometers.

The international cup of aviation, known also as the Gordon Bennett trophy, was won Saturday by Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, in the fastest aerial journey of twenty kilometers (12.42 miles) ever accomplished by man. His time, 15 min. 54 3-5 sec., was only 5 3-5 seconds faster than that made by Bleriot over the same course. The other two French pilots, Latham and Lefebvre, finished respectively in 17 min., 32 sec., and 20 min., 47 3-5 sec. Cockburn, an Englishman, ran into a haystack as he was maneuvering for the start, and did not cross the line. There were no other starters.

Among the other prizes was the Prix de l'Altitude, 1,000 francs, to be awarded to the aeroplane attaining the highest altitude. This was won by Latham, who reached a height of 155 meters (about 490 feet).

The passenger carrying contest was won by Farman. With two passengers he made the circuit of the course in 10 minutes, 39 seconds, and with one passenger in 9 minutes, 52 4-5 seconds.

The lap speed contest went to Bleriot, who covered the 10 kilometers in 7 minutes, 47 4-5 seconds. Curtiss was second.

The dirigible balloon Colonel Renard captured the Prix des Aeronautics, a prize of 10,000 francs, for the best time in five circles of the course, 50 kilometers. The time was 1 hour 1 minute 14 seconds.

Cortland F. Bishop, president of the Aero Club of America, says he intends to ask American cities to compete for the honor of holding the meeting where the international cup won by Curtiss will be defended. He has cabled to the Aero club offering a cash subscription for a gold medal to be presented to Curtiss by President Taft.

No one who witnessed the flights during the week now entertains the slightest doubt that aerial navigation with heavier than air machines has a glorious future.

Bottles Labeled "Wine" Must Contain Real Article

Washington.—Upholding its contention that the consumer is, under the food and drug act, entitled to know the character of the product he buys, the board of food and drug inspection of the Department of Agriculture issued a decision declaring that a beverage cannot be labeled wine unless it is made from "the normal alcoholic fermentation of juice of sound ripe grapes, without addition or abstraction, either prior or subsequent to fermentation."

The term "wine" can only be used for a beverage made from grapes. If the beverage is labeled "imitation," a fermented beverage prepared from grape "must" by the addition of sugar may be termed "sugar wine," according to the board's decision. The addition of water to the grape "must" will also require further characterization than the term "wine." The decision was reached by the board in connection with the labeling of Ohio and Missouri wines.

Big Vintage Festival Planned by Grape Growers of Napa

Napa.—A vintage festival will be held in Napa county from September 7 to 9, inclusive, the 9th being celebrated in California not only as Admission Day, but as the date of the first vintage festival along European lines of opening the vintage season. The center of attraction will be at Aetna Springs on the last named date. The purpose is to make the celebration an annual affair, sanctioned by the governor, and to impress Californians and outsiders with the importance of California's vititcultural industry. The recently organized grape growers of California will materially aid in making the affair a success.

ATE APPLE OF EMERALD HUE AND WALKED IN HIS SLEEP

Small Boy's Love of Fruit Creates an Uproar Among Police Officers.

San Francisco.—A green apple, which Merrill McCarson, seven years old, ate before going to bed, was the cause several hours later of upsetting the entire McCarson home and making a considerable stir in the Emergency Hospital service and in the police department. Incidentally Merrill experienced something of a panic, although he doesn't remember it all.

Merrill lives at 135 Juniper street. Ordinarily he sleeps with his brother, Joseph, who is a year or two older. He often walks in his sleep.

Late at night Joe was awakened by a blood-curdling scream. When he finally got courage enough to turn over in bed and lift the covers from his head he found that his brother had disappeared. Joe immediately raised the household and a search was started for Merrill without avail. The police and the emergency hospitals were notified. Several hours later Merrill was discovered in a small house in the rear of the residence. He had gone to bed with John Lyttell, who lived there. Neither the boy nor the man had been awakened by the uproar. Merrill explained that he had gone to bed filled with remorse because of a green apple, which he had eaten. He thinks that he was walking in his sleep.

TO DISPLAY CALIFORNIA FRUIT AT BRUSSELS FAIR

Sacramento Valley Driers and Packers Plan a Fine Exhibit.

Marysville.—The several fruit canning and packing companies of this city are arranging to send immense displays of canned, dried and processed fruits from the Sacramento valley to the World's fair at Brussels, Belgium, next year. The plan is to establish a Sacramento valley headquarters at the big fair, to have not only displays of fruit, but demonstrations of the methods of preparing the same. Thousands of sample cases and boxes of dried and pressed fruits will be handed out to visitors of the great fair. There will be at least three demonstrators sent to the exhibition, and the results to be derived are expected to bring great good to the valley.

Schmitz Finds Rich Ledge.

Marysville.—The long-lost ledge of the Carlisle mine at Forbestown, that thousands of dollars have been spent in vain search for, has now been found by Ex-Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco, who is the present owner of the property. The ledge has been found across the river from the point where it was lost years ago, and the ledge shows as strong in gold as it did in years gone by. Mayor Schmitz has a ten-stamp mill on the property and it will now be kept running day and night.

School for Forest Rangers.

San Francisco.—A school for forest rangers will commence its sessions at Hot Springs September 20, and continue for a period of one month. This field school will be maintained by the government for the purpose of teaching representatives from each national forest in the State every phase of the work which the rangers might be called upon to perform.

Drunken Man Killed by Freight Train.

Seattle.—John Falvey, 22 years old, a papermaker from Holyoke, Mass., was killed and horribly mangled by a freight train a few days ago. Falvey and Owen Joyce, also a Holyoke papermaker, who had been drinking, crawled under a freight car to sleep. When the car was moved the wheels caught Falvey, but Joyce escaped.

For Humanity's Benefit.

Chicago.—Chicago is to have an institution for medical research similar to that founded within recent years in New York by John D. Rockefeller. The new institution is the gift of Mrs. Nelson Morris, widow of the packer, and $250,000 needed for the hospital has been given by her as a memorial to her husband.

Rear-Admiral Swinburne Retired.

Brief Paragraphs That Give Busy Readers Review of Week's Happenings.

Summary of News Gathered by Correspondents Located in Every Quarter of the Globe.

New York.—District Attorney Jerome intends to be a candidate for re-election. He will run independently.

New York. — Eight transatlantic steamers last week landed 11,015 passengers in two days. This establishes a new record.

Washington.—David E. Thompson, United States Embassador to Mexico, has telegraphed the State Department that there is no danger of serious trouble in Mexico.

Siena, Italy.—A heavy earthquake was felt throughout the Province of Siena a few days ago. Practically all the houses in San Lorenzo were destroyed or badly damaged. Many persons were injured.

Lewes, Del.—The battle-ship South Carolina in her trial trip surpassed the record of her sister ship, the Michigan, by three-tenths of a knot. The new battleship finished the standardization runs, her average speed for five consecutive runs being 19.23 knots an hour.

Melilla.—The present situation of the army of 35,000 men sent over to Africa by Spain against the Moors is causing wide-spread discontent. Spain's soldiers are now cooped up in unhealthy camps and if they do not move soon they probably will be decimated by disease.

La Crosse, Wis.—George Purdy, an old soldier who had not spoken for 40 years was so furious when he heard the Rev. John Beach attack the Masons that his speech came to him all at once. He not only denounced Beach in strong terms, but gave him a beating besides.

Honolulu.—Loring Gilespie, quartermaster aboard the United States ship St. Louis, now here, is heir to one-third of the estate of his uncle, formerly of Boston, who died leaving nearly $200,000. He has seven months yet to serve in his enlistment, and states that he proposes to serve it out.

New York.—From dish-wiping to the stage of the Manhattan Opera House is the quick jump of the newest discovery of Oscar Hammerstein, who will introduce to the New York public Antonio Richard as an additional tenor this winter. Richard was a dish-washer in a hotel when some guests heard him singing.

Lawrence, Kas.—J. O. Milliken, disciplinarian of Haskett Institute here declared to the Associated Press that the story of alleged traffic in Indian girls attending this school is absolutely untrue. He stated further that there was no thought of asking the Federal authorities to make an investigation, as there was nothing to investigate.

Monroe, La.—Angered, it is believed, because two of his friends had recently been shot by the police, William S. Wade, a negro, ran amuck in the principal business street. He shot first at every object before him. The fire was returned and the negro fell dead with a bullet through his heart, but not before 29 men, three of them negroes, had been wounded.

Washington.—That the treasury department has adopted a general system of closer espionage on the officers and men oqf vessels entertaining American ports in order to prevent smuggling is made evident by the statement that no leniency would be shown to any offender against the customs laws, whatever his official position in the maritime service.

New York.—Charles Alfred Byrne, journalist and playwright, died here last week. He figured prominently in the Garfield campaign of 1880 as publisher of the newspaper in which appeared the forged Morey letter, purporting to give General James A. Garfield's endorsement to Chinese labor. The Morey letter was the most sensational incident in an exciting political campaign.

Panama.—General Herbert O. Jeffries, who figured prominently in the Panama revolution, killed William Nichols Chandler, editor of the Panama Press, by beating him on the head with the butt of a revolver and kicking him savagely in the abdomen. The cause of the fracas that resulted in Chandler's death was an article supposed to reflect on Mrs. Claude E. Guyant, wife of the United States deputy consul general here, and sister-in-law of Jeffries.

Stone River, of all the engagements of the late war in which I was a participant, strikes me as the most singular, in more respects than one. There were one or two circumstances connected with and immediately preceding the battle which have ever been to me a mysterious puzzle, and which I never could account for except upon the hypothesis that the commander of the Federal right was a blundering incompetent, and went to sleep at a time when he should have been on the alert.

Hardee's corps (to which my regiment, the First Arkansas, was attached), on the 30th of December, 1862, occupied a position on the extreme right of the Confederate army. Bragg, on that day, came to the determination to deliver battle on the following morning, and fixed on Hardee's corps as the force which should bring on the engagement. In pursuance of that plan we were transferred, on the evening of the 30th, to the extreme left of the army. It was past midnight before the movement was fully accomplished. We bivouacked in the open fields, less than half a mile from the Federal line. The night was frosty and crisp, and we built great fires of dry fence rails. There was over a mile of those bright, blazing fires. They illuminated the whole country for a great distance, and the glare was reflected high up in the heavens. On the morning of the 31st, just as the first faint streaks of dawn began to show themselves above the eastern horizon, the reveille was sounded, and the men fell into line like puppets, moved by a common spring. As far as the eye could reach to the right and to the left there stretched an unbroken line of glittering bayonets. In front of us, at the distance af about 500 yards, was a high rail fence, stretching across the bare and level stubble-fields for probably a mile. Just beyond this fence, and skirting it for its entire length, loomed up a dense cedar forest. Nestled amid these woods, apparently little dreaming of the close proximity of an enemy, were the Federal hosts, and there was probably not a man of the Confederate forces but expected that we would in a few minutes be engaged in deadly strife with these hosts. At about the hour the sunbeams began to glint the tops of the tallest trees, the skirmish line was thrown forward, and immediately following the whole Confederate line was in motion. When the worm fence was reached it went down before the solid human wall with a crash, as if smote by the wand of a magician. Not until this point was reached did the skirmishers fire a shot. There a few pickets were encountered, and probably not more than fifty shots were fired before we were in the very midst of the Federal camp. In advance of us the woods were full of the enemy, fleeing in disorder. The pursuit was kept up for three miles, and but for the intrepid and cool-headed Phil Sheridan the day would probably have witnessed the most disastrous defeat the Union arms sustained in the sanguinary four years' war. Every student of war history knows how the gallant Phil brought order out of chaos, checked the onset of Hardee's corps, and saved the day.

Now, the mysterious and unaccountable feature of that episode is, why did the Federal force on the right allow a large army to plant itself immediately in their front, within rifle shot, build bright fires that could be seen for miles, bivouac there unmolested all night, fall into line the next morning, advance upon them in battle array, capture their camp and baggage, and put them to flight without their offering so much resistance as the firing of a single gun? This question has time and again presented itself to my mind, and the more I think of it the more difficult to answer it becomes. —Arkansaw Traveler.

Old John.

John was a noble clay-bank horse, of the Copperbottom stock. He was bought by my step-father, a physician, when a colt, and had been raised by him, and being an intelligent animal, I had taught him many tricks.

The war coming on, "we boys" volunteered in the Confederate army. The darkies took French leave, so my step-father had to tend this horse himself. Our house fronted on the main street, and the lot ran back to an alley upon which was the stable. My step-father, when he had a professional call in the country, to save time, would bring John through the back and front yard and out the front gate, and the same also in returning.

The "non-conscript" act let me out of the Virginian army, and I returned to my home—Alexandria, Tennessee. The Yankees being unpleasantly numerous there, I persuaded my step-father to let me take John and join the rebel cavalry.

A year after this I was captured and carried to Camp Morton, Indiana, where I remained thirteen months, then returned home, just two years and one month from the time I rode John off to the war.

I should here state that mother and sister, after I went to the war, would very often feed and caress John, and he would come at their call.

Upon my return home mother told me the following: About a month before my return a body of Federal cavalry passed in front of our house at a double-quick. Just in front of our gate a soldier, riding a large clay-bank, turned out, galloped up to the gate, and stopped so suddenly as to nearly throw him forward. The horse commenced whinnying, pawing, and nosing the gate most energetically, the rider in the meantime cursing, jerking the reins, and roweling the animal most unmercifully with his spurs. The poor beast moved off reluctantly. My mother and sister had seen all this, and the latter said, "Ma, I believe that is old John. If it is, he will know my voice." So she called, "John poor John." By this time the horse and rider had moved up the street about fifty yards. But at the word "John" the horse wheeled and came back to the gate with such velocity that the rider scarcely kept his seat, and actually dropped off at the gate, and was so awfully mad at the horse that no doubt he would have shot him had not my sister and mother interposed in his behalf. By leading him the soldier finally got him away. And yet further. That night a noise was heard in the yard. Upon examination it was old John, as was his custom, grazing on the tender blue grass. The part of a halter on his head showed that he had broken his fastenings and came back to scenes he loved. Although full two years had elapsed, he had not forgotten his ancient habit of coming in at that self-same front gate, or the voice of one who was always gentle and kind to him. But he was cruelly taken away the next day, and nevermore heard from.

A Slowly Shifting Center.

In 1790 the center of population in this country was twenty-three miles east of Baltimore, in the State of Maryland, or virtually on the Atlantic shore line. In 1900 the center was in the State of Indiana. Its migration, the Geographical Journal says, has been slow and remarkably uniform, both in rate and direction. It has hovered for one hundred and ten years along the thirty-ninth parallel of latitude, and its total variation in latitude has been less than one-third of a degree.

The westward movement has averaged less than a degree in a decade, notwithstanding the incredibly swift occupation of a vacant continent by a movement of population westward. The easterly position of the center of population is also due to the more evenly distributed and more abundant resources of the United States.

It should not be forgotten that the geographical center of the continental United States lies some hundreds of miles west of the Mississippi River. The eastern half of the country therefore takes in the Atlantic lowlands, the prairies and Great Lake plains, the Gulf lowlands, and the forests and minerals of the Appalachian Mountains and Appalachian plateau. Over against these are the arid and mountainous areas of the West.

Certain areas will be reclaimed to incredible productiveness, and the mineral wealth is vast; but the center of population may be expected to remain permanently to the eastward of the geographical center of the land.

Result of Poor Writing.

The Duke of Wellington, through misreading a badly written letter, made a ludicrous blunder. This letter was written by C. J. London, a botanical author, who wrote to the duke requesting the privilege of seeing his beautiful beeches. The duke misread the signature for that of C. J. Bloomfield, bishop of London, and wrote in reply: "My lord, I shall always be glad to see you at Strattofieldsaye, and my servant will show you as many pairs of my breeches as you may choose to inspect. But what you want to see them for is quite beyond me."—Exchange.

While House Gets Fillmore China.

Interesting pieces of china, once owned by President Fillmore, were placed in the White House cabinets the other day. They were obtained through the efforts of Mrs. Abby G. Baker, who has charge of the White House collection, under the direction of Mrs. Taft. She learned that much of the Fillmore china could be found in Buffalo, the former President's old home. There she found that two sisters, Mrs. B. Terry and Miss Cornelia Burtis, had bought the old Fillmore mansion with almost all the furniture and china. They were delighted to add something to the White House collection and gave an old Staffordshire platter, a willow pattern plate and other dishes. From other persons in Buffalo it is expected to get more interesting articles owned by Fillmore.

FIFTEENTH YEAR, No. 8

Aw say! What did that feller want to go and discover the North Pole for anyhow? He might have known that us newspaper fellers have been relying on that for news articals for the last hundred years, and now it's all over. The San Joue Herald got the last crack at space filling with Polar stuff Wednesday afternoon when they put a whopper of a heading, a la Oakland Tribune, on an articel saying that it was diskivered. We're glad an American did it anyhow, because Americans alers is on top in everything.

There is goin' to be a cold winter now 'cause that feller found where it comes from.

Now what are those explorers goiug to do. They'll have to go south now, and then they'll—well goodness knws where they won't go.

They'll all be callin' Cook a liar now 'cause he didn't bring the Pole with him. How forgetful he was.

Speakin' about North Poles reminds us, Bro. Smith of Los Gatos thinks we want to loin the Editorial Association so we can do the entertaining stunt. Nix, Bro., we want to see if you fellers do anything to help the Trade before we will entertain. We're from Missouri, you know.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Almost a Disturbance.

The tall individual with the frayed newspaper in his hand approached the pudgy little man in the wilted collar.

"My friend, you look intelligent. Tell me which is correct—flee or fly?"

The little man mopped off the perspiration and glared pitchforks. "Aw, go on! What do you think I know about fleas and flies? Go to some natural history museum, beau."

"Pardon me, but you do not understand. I said flee or fly."

"I know what you said. Do you think I am an insect factory?"

"No, no, my friend! I"—

"Then what do you want to ask me about fleas and flies for?"

"I only thought that you could enlighten me. You have an intelligent face and"—

"An intelligent face? And that's the reason I look like I study bugs, eh? On your way before I bat you on the beak."

And then the pudgy little man mopped his collar and wondered whether the tall chap was a lunatic.—Chicago News.

A Quaint Color Scheme.

Rather a quaint color scheme is shown in a charming little frock of pale silver gray cachemire de soie embroidered with silk and bugles in shades of mole, both iron gray and brownish. The bugles are quite opaque and have a dull surface. A brown cash of bugle fringed panne encircles the hips and is knotted high up on one side.

Changes In Coiffure.

Coiffure changes are predicted. The exaggerated width of hairdressing is to give way to a much closer, neater aspect around the head, and a short, straight, unwaved fringe appears on the forehead in front, while coils of hair are wound around the top of the head turban fashion or bunched out like a chignon on the neck behind.

wonderful Lorch family of acrobats and 100 other great acts that are new to this country.

The parade will be given at 10 o'clock in the morning and it is entirely a new spectacle. The parade will be three miles long. The menagerie, too, is a wonderful affair, greatly enlarged and filled with strange specimens of the animal world. At the head of the menagerie is Darwin, the missing link, which lives in a miniature house with windows electric lights, hot water heater, chairs and tables. Darwin eats with a knife and fork, drinks from a bottle and shaves himself.
